3. Risks of Modern Slavery in Operations and Supply Chain

a. Our Approach

Last Revised: March 6, 2024

AutoCanada has a robust corporate governance framework, with the Board of Directors of AutoCanada Inc. (the "Board") being responsible for the stewardship of the affairs of AutoCanada and establishing and maintaining a culture of integrity in the conduct of the affairs of AutoCanada. The Governance and Nominating Committee is specifically responsible for reviewing and assessing AutoCanada's corporate governance policies and practices, governance developments, and best practices and, when considered appropriate, reporting and making recommendations to the Board concerning corporate governance policies and practices with respect to supply chain management.

In seeking to prevent and reduce the risk that forced labour or child labour was used in our operations and supply chains, AutoCanada has:

- conducted a high-level internal assessment of the risks of forced labour or child labour in our activities and supply chains;
- · embedded responsible business conduct into certain of our policies and practices; and
- engaged with certain supply chain partners on the issue of addressing forced labour or child labour.

b. Supply Chain Risks

Last Revised: March 6, 2024

When considering the risks of modern slavery practices at AutoCanada, attention was given to the potential for AutoCanada to cause, contribute to, or be directly linked to modern slavery through its operations and supply chain.

AutoCanada's operations are based wholly within Canada and Illinois, USA, which according to Walk Free Foundation's Global Slavery Index 2023 are low risk geographical regions due to the existence of robust human right statutory protections and regulatory oversight. As such, combined with our approach to corporate governance, we believe that AutoCanada is generally at low-risk from engaging in forced labour and child labour.

We acknowledge, however, that there may be a risk that AutoCanada contributes to, or may be indirectly linked, to modern slavery practices through inherent risks associated with the manufacturing sector for the automotive products sold by AutoCanada. Our most significant supply arrangements relate to the purchase of new vehicles and parts from different original equipment manufacturers ("OEMs"). The OEMs from which AutoCanada purchases new vehicles and parts for resale are generally large multinational organizations with robust governance and business practices, characterized by geographically dispersed manufacturing and supply chains.

The manufacturing sector is at an increased risk of modern slavery where aspects of manufacturing are outsourced to geographical locations with higher instances of modern slavery practices. AutoCanada is working to better understand the supply chains of its OEM suppliers around the world and their modern slavery policies and practices.

AutoCanada acknowledges that the raw materials procurement process does not often take place from our direct, tier one suppliers, but may occur further down our supply chain. This reduces our visibility over the raw materials used within our supply chain to produce components used in vehicle and parts manufacturing.

As a result of the foregoing, there is potential risk for AutoCanada's supply chain to cause, contribute to, or be directly or indirectly linked to actual or potential forced labour or child labour. To date, AutoCanada has not identified any specific instances of forced labour or child labour in its supply chain. As such, no remediation activities have been undertaken by AutoCanada.

REPORT

4. Steps Taken and Due Diligence to Prevent and Reduce the Risk of Modern Slavery

AutoCanada's due diligence process is focused on the identification and management of modern slavery risks. AutoCanada recognizes that the embedding of responsible business conduct into our policies and practices is critical to our continuing efforts to strengthen our ability to assess our modern slavery risks and evaluate the effectiveness of AutoCanada's policies and practices in this area.

a. Adoption of a Zero-Tolerance Statement

In August 2023, the Board approved a zero-tolerance Statement on Forced and Child Labour (our "Forced Labour Statement") which is attached to the Report as Schedule "A" and available on our Investors Relations website. Our Forced Labour Statement highlights that AutoCanada is a people-driven company that upholds values such as integrity, one of our core values, and is opposed to any form of modern slavery. Our intention is to continue to share our Forced Labour Statement with certain of our large suppliers and confirm that they are aligned with this position.

b. AutoCanada's policies and practices

AutoCanada's corporate governance framework is supported by a number of policies, documents and practices, a number of which are related to or affirm our zero-tolerance stance on modern slavery.

c. Code of Business Conduct

AutoCanada's Code of Business Conduct (the "Code of Conduct") requires AutoCanada and all its directors, officers, employees and consultants ("AutoCanada Personnel") to adhere to the highest ethical standards and to comply with all applicable laws. More specifically, the Code of Conduct articulates the following: "AutoCanada and all AutoCanada Personnel shall comply with the letter and spirit of all laws and regulations applicable to AutoCanada's activities. A concern for what is right must underlie all business decisions." The Code of Conduct further provides that all AutoCanada personnel are "encouraged to report, verbally, or in writing any evidence of improper practice of which they are aware" with the term "improper practice" meaning "any illegal, fraudulent, dishonest, unsafe, negligent or otherwise unethical action by a director, officer, employee or consultant."

AutoCanada Personnel are required to certify their understanding of and adherence to the Code of Conduct once every two years.

d. Whistleblower Policy

Last Revised: March 6, 2024

AutoCanada's Whistleblower Policy (the "Whistleblower Policy") encourages the reporting, including confidential reporting, of questionable business practices, including suspected cases of modern slavery. Notably, the Whistleblower Policy encourages the prompt reporting of "all evidence of activity by [AutoCanada], any director, officer, employee or consultant that may constitute any of the following: (1) breaches of the Code of Conduct; and (2) breaches of any statute, law, legislation, rule or law governing the operations of the [AutoCanada]'s business and operations". Any allegations of these wrongdoings will be further investigated under the Whistleblower Policy.

REPORT

Taken together, AutoCanada's Code of Conduct and Whistleblower Policy seek to ensure that the conduct of all AutoCanada Personnel and overall business operations are in accordance with our corporate values, policies and expectations and at all times remain compliant with the Act.

e. Reviewing our Suppliers' Practices

AutoCanada has implemented a recent practice that prior to entering into significant agreements with a given supplier or service provider, AutoCanada may conduct a review of a supplier's or service provider's governance practices and policies regarding modern slavery. This allows AutoCanada to better assess a supplier's adherence and compliance with the Act and confirm that its business operations do not involve forced labour or child labour before entering into any formal agreement. In furtherance of the foregoing, AutoCanada may consider requesting the inclusion of a provision in certain contracts in which suppliers or service providers covenant that they will comply with all applicable laws and/or confirm that neither they nor their supply chains engage in or are aware of any modern slavery within their supply chain. In implementing its contractual affirmation procedures to-date, AutoCanada has taken a contextual approach based on: (1) the perceived risks associated with the supplier or service provider; (2) the length of the business relationship between AutoCanada and the supplier or service provider; and (3) AutoCanada's understanding of the strength of the supplier's or service provider's own human rights and modern slavery policies and practices.

5. EFFECTIVENESS AND NEXT STEPS

AutoCanada is committed to continuous improvement with respect to its operations and supply chain due diligence to reduce and prevent risks of modern slavery. During the next reporting period we plan to begin the following key activities to improve our understanding and management of modern slavery risks:

- Develop general modern slavery awareness training for those involved in procurement which will continue building AutoCanada's awareness and understanding of modern slavery and the risks across our operations and supply chain;
- 2. Take actions to assess our effectiveness in preventing and reducing risks of modern slavery; and
- 3. Updating our policies and practices, such as our Code of Conduct to directly incorporate the provisions and principals of our Forced Labour Statement.

6. APPROVAL
